About

My passion is in the aid that computers can bring to people. I relish the opportunity to design and develop systems that will be used by the average person and focus my attention on the usability and accessibility of anything I work on. I recognise that computerised systems can be intimidating to people and it's my hope that I ... more

Happy New Year, LinkedIn community!
As 2026 begins, I'm thrilled to share that I've recently made a big move to beautiful North Carolina — a fresh start in a vibrant state full of opportunity, warm people, and that perfect mix of southern charm and tech momentum.
This move coincides perfectly with my renewed commitment: to establish a solid foothold in the software engineering industry this year. I'm all in — diving deep into building projects, sharpening my skills (full-stack, cloud, and everything in between), contributing to open source, and soaking up every
